Die Veneris 9^{to} Decembris 1743.

THE House was moved, that an humble Address be presented to His Majesty, that His Majesty will most graciously be pleased to give Orders, that the Sixteen Thousand Hanoverians, now in the Pay of Great-Britain, be no longer continued in the Service of this Nation, after the 25th of this Instant December, thereby to put a Stop to the Jealousies and Heart-burnings among His Majesty's faithful Subjects at Home, and His British Forces Abroad.

1. Because we conceive, that the Reasons assigned in the Question not only justify'd, but call'd for that Question, as a proper and necessary Exercise of the inherent Rights of this House to advise the Crown; and we are convinced, that such Jealousies and Animosities have arisen, and will continue between the Troops of Great-Britain and those of Hanover, that they can no longer act together, without evident Danger of the most pernicious and fatal Consequences.

2. Because this our Conviction is founded upon the most publick and universal Notoriety, first transmitted from the Army abroad, then confirmed without Doors by the unanimous and concurrent Accounts of all the Officers that are returned from them; and now uncontradicted by any of those noble Lords who had the Honour of serving the last Campaign, and who were appealed to for the Truth of this Proposition while the Question was under our Consideration: A Silence! which, we apprehend, amounts to a Demonstration of the Truth of the Facts alledged.

3. Because an Army divided against itself in such a manner as ours will certainly be, if the 16,000 Hanoverians are still to continue a Part of it, can give no Strength to whatever Allies we have, no Terror to our Enemies, but must greatly obstruct, and probably defeat the Success of any Operation or Service in which it can be employed.

4. Be-

4. Because the Incompatibility of the British and Hanoverian Troops being known to all Europe, nothing can be a greater Inducement to the Queen of Hungary and the King of Sardinia, to quit our Alliance, and make a separate Peace for themselves, than if they should find, that, instead of a real and effectual Support, we are resolved to give the Name of an Army only; which from the above-mentioned Reasons, they must be sure cannot co-operate in any Plan for their Service, or the Benefit of the Common Cause.

5. Because we apprehend, that were it necessary, there would be no Difficulty in replacing the Hanover Troops with 16,000 others, at least as good, and as cheap, and not liable to the same, or any other Objections from other States, who would be very willing to treat with us about such a Bargain. Nay, we conceive, that this Number might, without any Danger, be, in a great Degree, supply'd by our National Troops now in Great-Britain, and still leave more for the Defence of the Kingdom at Home than were kept here at any Time during the last War. And we can discover no good Reason, in our present burdened and exhausted Condition, for keeping a Number of National Troops useless at home, and paying at the same Time so considerable a Number of useless Mercenaries abroad.

6. Because the Willingness of the States General of the United Provinces, or any other Power in Europe, to enter into a closer Conjunction with us, at this critical Time, must chiefly depend upon the Idea they shall conceive of the State of this Nation at home, especially with regard to the greater or lesser Degree of Union and Harmony which shall appear to subsist between his Majesty and his People in these his Royal Dominions. And it is known all over Europe, how much Discontent and Dissatisfaction the taking these 16,000 Hanover Troops into the Pay of Great Britain, together with the many unhappy and mortifying Circumstances that have attended that Measure, has universally raised in this Kingdom; and how much Reason there is to apprehend an Increase of that Dissatisfaction, if it should be a determined Measure of Government to continue so odious a Burden upon the Nation, not only without any Advantage, but with the most visible Danger to the Service abroad.

7. Because we conceive it to be as much the Duty, as it is the Right, of the Peers of this Realm, who are hereditary Counsellors to the King, and Mediators between the Crown and the People, to interpose their timely Advice against such Measures as calculated, in our Opinions, for the private Views of Particular People only, have a manifest Tendency to alienate the Love of the Nation in general from this Royal Family, which we will always support with true English Hearts, and with such Counsels as we do in our Consciences think the most conducive to their Glory, and to maintain and preserve the Honour and Dignity of that British Crown, to which alone we owe our Allegiance.

8. Because we know there are Partialities almost inseparable from human Nature, and blameless in themselves, when acting within their proper Bounds, which yet must have a most fatal Influence, if encouraged to mix themselves with the Affairs of this Nation, either in the Council or in the Camp; and we do, from our Souls, scorn and abominate that most Abject and Criminal Adulation, which either gives Way to, or inflames such Partialities, in prejudice to the National Honour and Interest of our Country: We thought it therefore necessary to enter these our Reasons against the further Continuance of these Mercenaries, which, for one Campaign only, have already cost this Nation near 70,000 l. and which appear to us to have been, in many Instances, disobedient to British Orders, and utterly incompatible with British Troops: That, as our Votes have (we hope) proved us to the present Age, our Names in the Books may transmit us to Posterity, ENGLISHMEN.

On a Motion, That it is the Opinion of this House, that the continuing the Sixteen Thousand Hanoverians in the Pay of Great Britain is prejudicial to the true Interest of his Majesty, useless to the Common Cause, and dangerous to the Welfare and Tranquillity of this Nation.

Die Martis 31 Januarij, 1743.

THE Order of the Day being read for taking into farther Consideration the Estimate of the Charge of the Troops of Hanover in the Pay of Great Britain, from the 25th of December 1743, to the 25th of December 1744.

It was moved to resolve, That it is the Opinion of this House, that the continuing Sixteen Thousand Hanoverians in the Pay of Great Britain is prejudicial to the true Interest, of his Majesty, useless to the Common Cause, and dangerous to the Welfare and Tranquillity of this Nation.

And the same being objected to, after a long Debate thereupon, The Question was put upon the said Motion.

Dissentients

1. Because we conceive, that the Demand made in the Estimates for the Continuance of the 16000 Hanoverians in the Pay of Great Britain for the ensuing Year, rendered the Interposition of this House against so fatal a Measure the more necessary, inasmuch as it seemed now to be the only Means left to prevent it.

2. Because we apprehend, that every national Purpose, pretended to be answered by these Hanoverians, may be more effectually served by an equal Number of Troops, supposing such a Number to be necessary, free from the same Objections, either of other foreign Mercenaries, who will thereby be prevented from engaging with our Enemies (of which the Hanoverians, when unpaid by us, cannot, we assure ourselves, be suspected) or, at least (which is evidently practicable, even at this Time) partly of Mercenaries, and partly out of the great and extraordinary Establishment of national Troops now in this Kingdom.

3. Because it appears to us, that these Hanoverians, tho' in the Pay, can hardly be said to have been in the Service of this Nation; some refused to Form in the first Line at the Battle of Dettinghen, and retired to the second; others refused to obey the Orders of the British General, and march in the pursuit of the Enemy after the Battle; and the greatest Number of them, who together with some of the British Guards, composed what was called the Rear Guard, under the Command of a Hanoverian Lieutenant General, took a different Rout in the March from the rest of the Army from Aschaffenburg; and such a one as not only rendered them wholly useless to the Army, when the French attack'd us in Front, but would have rendered them equally useless, if the French from Aschaffenburg (where we left the Passage open to them) had attack'd us in the Rear, in which it was pretended that these Troops were left as in the Post of Honour. Nay, not contented to avoid being of Use, either in the Front or in the Rear, but determined to be of Use no where, they halted as soon as they came within Sight and Reach of the Battle, tho' pressed by the British Officer, and invited by the Ardour of the British Soldiers to share the Glory, and complete, as they might have done, the Victory of the Day. These Facts (together with many others which we omit) asserted in the Debate in Presence of many Lords of this House who served in the last Campaign, denied by none of them, and confirmed in general by a Noble Duke of the highest Rank and Character, prove (as we conceive) these Troops to be useless, at least, if Action be intended; and we will not represent, even to ourselves, what Reasons there can be for demanding them, if Action be not intended.

4. Because, if, as it was insinuated in the Debate, other Mercenaries could not be relied on, as belonging to Princes of the Empire, inclined to, or engaged with our Enemies, these Hanoverians would, as we conceive in Consequence, be useless to the Common Cause, since it would be in the Power of those very Princes, by only marching their Troops into proper Places, to recal these Mercenaries from us, and confine them to the Defence of their own Electorate, or disarm them at least, by a second Neutrality.

5. Because it has not been pretended, that the Administration has so much as endeavoured to obtain any other foreign Troops whatsoever, notwithstanding the long Notoriety of the universal and deeply rooted Dissatisfaction of the Nation at the present Measure. A Neglect so unaccountable and surprising to us, that we fear the Nation will rather suspect that we are to have no other Troops, than believe no others are to be had.

6. Because we conceive, that the future Co-operation of our national Troops with these Mercenaries has been rendered impracticable, and even their Meeting dangerous; we think it, therefore, indispensably incumbent upon us to remove the Object that occasioned the many Instances of Partiality, by which the Hanoverians were unhappily distinguished, and our our brave Fellow-Subjects, the British Forces, undeservedly discouraged. The constant Preference in Quarters, Forage, &c. we wish no Occasion had been given to remember; but we cannot pass over in Silence the Hanoverian Guards having for some Days done Duty upon his Majesty at Aischaffenburg, which we look upon as the highest Dishonour to his Majesty and this Nation, and are therefore astonished to observe an unusual, and, to every other Purpose useless, Proportion of Hanover Guards continued upon the Estimate.

7. Because we apprehend, that the Argument urged in Opposition to this Question; namely, that the withdrawing these 16000 obnoxious Mercenaries would be weakening our Army in the next Campaign, alarm our Allies, and encourage our Enemies, is fully obviated by the Methods we have mentioned above, of replacing them, some, if not all of which (notwithstanding the, to us, unaccountable Negligence of the Administration) are still undeniably practicable: Nor can we conceive, in any Case, that the removing the Causes of Discord and Division tends to the weakening of that Body (from whence they are removed; and we are of Opinion, that our Allies would not (whatever our Enemies might) regret the Loss of these Troops the next Year, which, by Experience, they found so useless the last.

8. Because we apprehend, that the most fatal Consequences must ensue, should this Nation be once possessed with an Opinion, that the Discouragements and Mortifications which our Fellow-Subjects of the Army have received Abroad, were derived from any Distrust or Dislike of the British Nation; we are far from entertaining any such Opinion, tho' some Degree of foreign Partiality may indeed have given Occasion to these Discouragements and Mortifications; tho' we can't help ascribing them likewise to some abject Flattery and criminal Misrepresentation, which this Partiality, blameless in itself, has unhappily given Occasion to; and by which, in its Turn, it has been fomented. But how groundless soever such an Opinion may be, it may still prevail, and the Appearances we lament, may produce the Effects we dread. The Motives to that Concern, that have been expressed in this House, and the loud Dissatisfaction that has been expressed every where else, are in themselves of great Importance, and such as would deserve, even if they stood alone, the serious Consideration, and seasonable Interposition of this House. But we confess, that they appear to us still more important, when we consider them relatively to Things of the same Nature, less apparent, indeed, but equally real, and more detrimental, perhaps, if not more dishonourable to this Nation. For, more dishonourable they may be thought, if a continued Principle of Conduct, whereby the Interests of one Country are carried on in Subordination to those of another, constitute the true and mortifying Definition of a Province. We will not here call to Memory any former Measures of this Kind, nor recapitulate all the Instances that might be given, wherein the Blood and Treasure of this Nation have been lavishly employed, when no one British Interest, and (as we conceive) some foreign Interest alone was concerned. Some of these Instances were touched in the Debate, most of them are well known; and all of them are at this Time, by the Course of Events, manifested to publick View. The former were long hid and disguised under political Veils, the present could not by their Nature be so; they are such as strike every one equally, from the highest Officer to the common Soldier, and carry along with them not only their own Weight, but the Weight of all those that preceded them: They are such, therefore, in our Opinions, as must affect, in the most fatal Manner, both the Peace of his Majesty and his Royal Family, and the Common Cause in which we are now, and may hereafter be engaged. The present Royal Family was justly called to the Throne of Great Britain, in order to secure to us our Civil and Religious Rights, and to remove every false and foreign Bias from our Administration: The Happiness and Security therefore of both King and People, consist in the inseparable Union of all these Interests, with the Interest of the Crown, in a just Confidence, that these National Views were those of the present Royal Family. This Nation has done every Thing that could engage them to adhere to them; and has given to his Late and Present Majesty, far greater Sums than ever were given in similar Circumstances, to any of their Royal Predecessors. Whoever goes about to sever the Interests of the Crown, from any National Interests, is an Enemy to Both; and every Measure that does so, tends to destroy Both. It is to guard against such Attempts, that our Zeal for our King and Country exerts itself on this great Occasion, as our most earnest Desire is, That his Majesty's Throne should be established in the Hearts of his People; and as we are struck with Horror at every Object that can alienate his Affections from them, or theirs from him. How much these unfortunate Circumstances have already weakened the natural Influence of Great Britain in the Common Cause of Europe, is but too apparent in Fact, and could not be otherwise in the Nature of Things. Great Britain is a powerful Kingdom, and whenever she has acted in her true Character, and aimed at that great and noble View alone, of maintaining a Balance between the Powers of Europe, for the Common Interest of all, the Effects have been answerable to the Cause, and her Influence in Germany, saved by her Arms, and supported by her Treasures in the last Wars, was, as it ought to be, and as it has been every where else, superior: But should it ever appear, that an inferior German Principality is really, and Great Britain only nominally, the Director and Actor, such a Change in the Cause must necessarily produce a deplorable Difference in the Effect; and Hanover, that can neither give Strength nor

nor Consideration to Great Britain, may thus diminish the one, and take the other wholly away.

The

The LORDS PROTEST

On a Motion for the House to be put into a Committee upon the Bill, intituled, An Act to make it High Treason to hold Correspondence with the Sons of the Pretender to His Majesty's Crown.

Die Veneris 27mo Aprilis, 1744.

THE Order being read for the House to be put into a Committee, upon the Bill, intituled, An Act to make it High Treason to hold Correspondence with the Sons of the Pretender to His Majesty's Crown, Ordered, that it be an Instruction to the said Committee, that they do receive a Clause for attainting any of the Pretender's Sons of High Treason, in case they shall land, or attempt to land in Great Britain, or any of the Dominions belonging to the Crown of Great Britain, or to be found on board any Ship or Vessel with Intent to land there.

Then the House was moved, that the Tenth Section of an Act, made in the 7th Year of the Reign of Her late Majesty Queen Anne, intituled, An Act for improving the Union of the two Kingdoms, relating to Forfeitures for High Treason, might be read.

The same was read accordingly.

And it being also moved, That it be an Instruction to the said Committee, that they do receive a Clause or Clauses to suspend and postpone the Operation and Effect of the said Act till after the Death of the Sons of the Pretender.

The same was objected to, and after a long Debate thereupon,

The

The Question was put, Whether such an Instruction shall be given to the Committee?

It was resolved in the Affirmative.

Dissentient

1. Because this Addition to the Bill enacts the Continuation of a Punishment, which, tho' it may have prevailed at Times, in this and other Countries, we conceive it to be directly contrary to the first Principles of natural Justice, it being an uncontested Maxim, that the Innocent ought not to suffer for the sake of the Guilty, where, by the Nature of the Thing, it is possible to prevent it.

2. Because involving the Innocent in the Punishment of the Guilty, is wholly inconsistent with that Spirit of Justice and Lenity that distinguishes our Law; and which says, It is better, That ten guilty Persons should escape, than that one innocent one should suffer.

3. Because we conceive, That the postponing the Operation of that Clause, in Act 7. of Queen Anne, till the Deaths of the Pretender's two Sons, is contrary to the plain Intention of that very Act, which appears throughout to have been an Act of Lenity and Mitigation; and to have been confined to the Life of the Pretender himself, or three Years after the Succession of the present Royal Family should take Place, the Duration of those cruel Penalties, of Forfeiture of the Estates, and Corruption of the Blood of Innocent Persons, as the utmost Term it was proper or just to allow them; and we apprehend, That the Pretender's marrying and having Children, was at that Time too probable and obvious an Event, not to have suggested this Provision, had it been thought either just or necessary.

4. Because we are far from being convinced, that the Terror of these Penalties will so often prevent Guilt, as the Execution of them will oppress Innocence; and we do not conceive, that those whom neither the innate Principle of Self-preservation, nor the Horror inseparable from Guilt can restrain, will be checked by the tender Sentiments of parental Affection.

5. Be-

5. Because we conceive, that no present Danger whatever can be urged as an Argument for this Clause, whose Operation does not commence till after the Death of the Pretender, who is but now fifty-six Years old; and we can see no good Reason for anticipating a future and remote Danger (supposing that such a Danger could ever exist) in order to enact at present the longer Continuation of so dreadful a Penal Law.

6. Because we conceive, That this Continuation is, in effect, perpetuating this Severe Law, since whatever Reasons can be urged for it during the Lives of the Pretender's two Sons, will hold equally strong for continuing it as long as he or they shall have any Posterity subsisting.

7. Because we conceive, That as this Clause can have no immediate Operation, the enacting it at present may seem rather to be an Insinuation of present Disaffection, than any Security against it; which Insinuation, we apprehend, would be highly unjust and unbecoming, after the unanimous Zeal and Loyalty, which the whole Nation has so lately given Proofs of, for His Majesty's Person and Government, and with which his Majesty has so lately from the Throne declared himself satisfied. These Reasons have induced us to transmit to Posterity our Dissent to a Clause by which they may be so severely affected: We reflect with Concern upon the heavy Burthen of Debts and Taxes with which we fear we shall leave them loaded; and we desire that they may know, that we endeavoured, at least, to secure their Innocence from the Rigour of those Laws to which it may hereafter be exposed and sacrificed.

The Clause referred to.

Proviso, That after the Decease of the Pretender, and at the End of three Years after the Succession of the Crown by the Demise of the Queen shall take Effect, no Attainder for Treason shall disinherir any Heir,

Heir, nor prejudice the Right of any Person, other than the Right of the Offender during his natural Life.
